MODULE 6: A WEBSITE THAT BOOKS

Your accessibility and legal page check

Lesson: Accessibility, privacy and the legal pages · about 15 minutes

Use these exercises to check your site and draft the pages it needs.

Your business (name, service, main city):

1. Check your body text and button colours with a contrast checker and record each ratio.

2. Count the images on your home page and top service page, and how many lack useful alt text.

3. Try to use your site with only the Tab and Enter keys. List anything you could not reach.

4. List what personal information you collect, why, and every service provider that stores it for you.

5. Write your accessibility statement, including how clients can ask for information in another format.

6. Count your employees and note which AODA requirements apply to you.

Check: can you now

- Find and fix the most common accessibility problems on an event business website
- Write a plain-language privacy policy based on PIPEDA's principles
- Determine which AODA requirements apply to your business by its number of employees

One change you will make this week